

Winter fun activity list

Autumn is over and winter has well and truly arrived, with its cold short days. I am guessing lots of people don't like winter, however, I don't mind it. I like wrapping up in a cosy warm jumper, going for a walk in the very fresh morning air, surrounded by frost. I love coming home for a cosy hot chocolate with my children after playing outside. I love the expectation and excitement the children have waiting and wishing for snow. I love spending Sunday at home, indoors, when it's raining outside and we all play together, followed by a nice family sunday roast.

Yes, it is cold and often wet, but there are definitely nice bits to winter too.

I have previously written a bucket list for summer and autumn. I loved these lists so much, I have now written a winter list too. Here's our list of fun for the winter.....

1. Make christmas lanterns (like our halloween ones, only xmas)
2. Make christmas cards together
3. Make paper chains
4. Make reindeer biscuits
5. Lots of other cooking (still to be decided)
6. Have fun with our elf on the shelf
7. Visit santa
8. Go on a christmas fairy light walk
9. Do lots of other christmas crafts (use pinterest for more ideas)
10. Sing and play lots of music (especially christmas music, as it's not christmas without music)
11. Go on a winter nature walk
12. Do lots puddle jumping
13. Hopefully go sledging
14. Hopefully make a snowman & have general snowy fun
15. Make a den
16. Make snowman pictures and crafts
17. Visit the library more
18. Have lots of story time together
19. Do some outdoor chalking
20. Go to the park

21. Have a games afternoon
22. Do some science experiments
23. Make snowflakes

This is my core winter fun list, however, I am hoping to add to this too, and of course, it goes without saying, spend lots of family time together and have a great christmas!
