

More elf fun

This is the last week our elf on the shelf 'Jack' will be with us this year. It has been so much fun having him throughout the christmas season, we will be sad to say goodbye to him tonight, but we look forward to his return again next year.

Here's what Jack got up to this week.....

Sitting in the coffee pot on the kitchen stove eating ice cream to cool down

Sleeping in Santa's hat

Driving the playmobil recycling truck round the living room

Practicing some elf christmas photography

Jack also brought us a note this week, asking us to choose some toys and books to give to others, which we will definitely be doing.

We love this elf on the shelf tradition and can't wait for next year
