

Let kids be kids linky 22/4/14

Welcome to let kids be kids linky.

This is a linky all about letting kids be kids, getting back to basics and having great childhood fun. We live in such a fast paced modern world with so much technology and stresses round every corner, we often need to be reminded to just 'play' and have fun, it's healthy for us all (yes, that includes you parents!).

Please join me in spreading the word, for encouraging children to step away from the technology for a while and go out, run around, use their imaginations and just have general basic FUN!

I hope you have all had a lovely easter, with lots of eggy and bunny fun. We enjoyed an easter egg hunt in the garden (from the easter bunny of course) on sunday. We have also spent a very large amount of time outside, with lots of planting together. It's been a lovely easter break, now back to school and reality today!

Lots of lovely posts all linked up again last week. Sophie is shared a lovely post of a secret playground. Wild family fun wrote about how children have fun outdoors no matter what the weather and Mummyshire showed us how to have fun making edible painted easter cards.

There's not many rules, just link up your posts, old or new, about genuine childhood fun (of any age). It may be fun outdoors, jumping in puddles, nature hunts, riding bikes or making mud pies. Or it may be fun indoors with arts and crafts, making dens, cooking, messy play or reading. Or how about visiting a farm or fun at a fete. Or a discussion about kids growing up too fast, etc.

Whatever basic fun you have been having or discussing, link up and share your ideas, visit others to get inspiration and comment to give each other encouragement and support, but most importantly, HAVE FUN!

This linky will open every Tuesday for 6 days, so there's plenty of time to add your posts.

Please spread the word and grab my badge from my sidebar if possible.

If you tweet me your link (@karenattwinlife), I will happily retweet.