

Let kids be kids linky 24/6/14

This is a linky all about letting kids be kids, getting back to basics and having great childhood fun. We live in such a fast paced modern world with so much technology and stresses round every corner, we often need to be reminded to just 'play' and have fun, it's healthy for us all (yes, that includes you parents!).

Please join me in spreading the word, for encouraging children to step away from the technology for a while and go out, run around, use their imaginations and just have general basic FUN!

We had a bit of a roller coaster of a week last week, there were many ups and downs, however I had a great time at Britmums live and met lots of great bloggers, but sorry I missed so many of you too, maybe next year?

There were some fab posts linked up last week. I thought these fro-yo fruit pops were a great idea for a healthy summer snack from My Life My Love and the diy fossil handprints at Cuddles and crumbs were a lovely idea for a gift. I also loved reading about the toddler driving at Bubba blue and me.

There's not many rules, just link up your posts (screen free), old or new, about genuine childhood fun (of any age). It may be fun outdoors, jumping in puddles, nature hunts, riding bikes or making mud pies. Or it may be fun indoors with arts and crafts, making dens, cooking, messy play or reading. Or how about visiting a farm or fun at a fete. Or a discussion about children growing up too fast, etc.

Whatever basic fun you have been having or discussing, link up and share your ideas, visit others to get inspiration and comment on as many as you can to give each other encouragement and support, but most importantly, HAVE FUN!

This linky will open every Tuesday for 6 days, so there's plenty of time to add your posts.

Please spread the word and grab my badge if possible from my sidebar.
